democrate to ever attempt to use a title here.

Mammia Cummings, who raised such a protest when the fact of her daughter's marriage was first made known to her, told a reporter who cancel upon her at its West Thirty-fourth street this morning that she would be based on the ground that this was not the Sol Smith who fought with life and the would refer to hold the missed being resolemnized in mer presence, otherwise she would never rest satisfied. "This, said Thyll, laying his mand on his wife's shoulder in court this morning after being told of his mother-in-law's news; "is my lawfully wedded wife. The charge upon which Thyll was arrested was promptly thrown out of court by Justice Martin as soon as he heard it. Thyll, or the Baron, as he will probably still be called, says it was trumped up to injure him in business.

He is an inventor and electrical engineer, and some years ago invented and patented a cutting-macifile, of which great things are expected.

After patenting the machine he sold ene-third interest in it each to a Mr. Myels, of Chicago, and Bernard S. Klee, of this city. A company was formed, he said, known as the Electric Cutlery Company, of which Mr. James Smith for violating the laws of Indianal Secretary and Thyll himself Vice-yresident.

Among the men who worked for the Company was Carl Schmeider, who now in figures as the compainant against Thyll, rise charge is that on Oct. 15, 1891, Klee owed him 310, and that Klee handed that amount to Thyll to pay over.

Instead of doing so, he says, the Vice-president put the money in his pocket.

He could not very well explain in court this morning why he waited two years to get a warrant for Thyll's arrest.

Lawyer Sullivan for Thyll denied the charge altogether. He first pointed out that a copartnership existed between If Thyll had received $10 there would be no criminal charge possible. He characterized the charge as the essence of absurdity, and said that in court this morning Schmeider offered to withdraw it for the $10. Of course the suggestion was rejected, he said.

Ellisor being the only guest of the rumbs having business in Fart III, of the Court of General Sessions to-day, was spared the pain of associating with low down thieves and sluggers in the Black Maria. He walked down with Deputy Sheriff Pairwingle that remarkably small and slender officer taking the precaution to attach himself to his big, athletic prisoner by locking his left wriet to Ellison's right with handcaffs.

Otherwise, what might have happened had Ellison sportively "biffed" the little Deputy Sheriff and made a dash for freedom, is a question appalling to speculate upon.

Ellison left his suit of funeral black at his lolatings, and uppeared to-day in a gray suit of fashionable cut. The white (our-in-han) was superseded by a black ever, but here was no change in the swollen cwell is and ulten scowl. In the court-troom he puffed cigarette.
